On Saturday night about nine o'clock the ice broke up in the river, and for about two hours it went down the stream quite rapidly. The ice filled the channel from shore to shore, and went crunching and grinding along, making a noise not unlike the roar of the surf beating on the beach. When the ice from about Trenton got as far as Bristol it was jammed up on the bar and flats between Burlington and Bristol, and it has remained there ever since, with the exception of a slight movement on Sunday. Hundreds of people congregated upon the wharves when the ice began to move on Saturday night. It was a sight worth seeing. The heavy masses of ice came down the river, piling itself up, in some cases, several feet high, and the glittering crystals with the moonlight streaming down upon it presented a picture of rare beauty. On Sunday afternoon the ice above the Hollow Creek suddenly broke, and with such force that it cut a gully through the hard of Hancock's farm on Burlington Island, and the imprisoned water which had been backed by the ice-gorge on the low-lands of the Manor and into the road near Landreth's, found vent and rushed across Hancock's farm into the channel back of the island. This channel has remained clear ever since, but the gorge along our river front seems firm enough to last all summer. The freshest in the river, which was the cause of the ice breaking, is said by those supposed to have memories reaching back so far, to be the greatest that has been experienced since 1857. The water covered all the wharves and inundated the residences along the river and the canal basin, in many cases flooding the kitchens and doing considerable damage. At Bloomsdale much injury was done, and the house occupied by Benjamin Tomlinson was so far submerged that the family was compelled to move out. The basement of Jas. W. Knight's residence was flooded, and the water-works the ice and water was up to the floor of the engine room. Don's engine house on the Twelfth's wharf was wrenched around at one end, and lumber was scattered around in different directions. The farm of Taylor and Baker at the point opposite Burlington was also badly damaged by the breaking of the dams. Great injury was done at the tobacco farm on Duck's Island, above Tullytown, and at Nathan Hellings' fruit house. The ice was piled ten feet high on his wharf. The waiting house at Tullytown was carried away and floated down behind the island on Sunday afternoon. A canal boat also drifted down the same day. It is feared that the ice-gorge which extends a mile and a quarter along our river front will work permanent injury to the channel on the Pennsylvania side of the river. Except for the ice here the channel would be open all the way from Trenton to Philadelphia. The ice from beyond Yardley has not yet come down the river, and if this ice-gorge is not dissipated before this comes down there will be serious time along the Delaware in this vicinity.

The Bucks County Temperance Alliance assembled in the Methodist Church of our borough on Friday last. The various parts of the county were well represented. The meetings were presided over by the President of the Alliance, Frank Musselman, of Quakertown, and Miss Lizzie Lloyd acted as Secretary. The morning session, although devoted principally to the reception of reports was quite interesting. In the afternoon essays were read, upon the most effective way of using the ballot to advance the interests of temperance. Robert K. Tomlinson, of Greenback fame, advocated the union of Woman Suffragists, the Civil Service Reformers, the Prohibitionists and the Financial Reformers, or Greenbackers. Barclay Byre, of Dolington, thought agitation in favor of State Legislation, and voting for State officials who would secure the law the advocates of temperance desired. He did not believe in making the battle for temperance a National one. Samuel F. Gwimer advocated organization as the winning card for the success of temperance politically, and thought that temperance men should make up tickets to vote at the elections, composed of the most unobjectionable men, from a temperance standpoint, from both the political parties of the country. Mrs. Dr. Neston, of Newtown, delivered a short but earnest and eloquent address, and Frank Musselman read an essay, and Miss Lizzie Lloyd read a poem. Resolutions were adopted in favor of circulating temperance literature; publishing the names of signers of license applications; the circulation of petitions in favor of temperance legislation now before the legislature, and the executive committee was instructed to devise a plan for organizing the temperance forces of the county. In the evening a large audience assembled and were addressed by Aaron M. Powell, of New York, who ably reviewed and confuted the recent lecture delivered by Dr. Howard Crosby, in Boston. The Alliance will hold its next meeting at Pineville, the time to be announced hereafter.

Mr. Allen L. Garwood announces his withdrawal from the contest for the postmastership. This leaves the field clear to Dr. Baker, Isaac S. Tomlinson and William P. Wright.

The concert in the Baptist church, to which allusion was made last week, will occur this evening. An excellent program has been arranged for the occasion and the entertainment will doubtless prove one of the best of the season.

The regular meeting of the Borough Council was held on Monday evening. Dr. Potts from the Sanitary Committee announced that there was a case of small-pox in the borough, and asked that the committee be instructed with measures they should take to prevent the spread of the disease. He thought the committee should be empowered to aid families, where the disease was present, if necessary, so that the members of the family could be kept as isolated as possible.

Mr. Brelsford concurred in the views of Dr. Potts.

Mr. Scheide thought a legitimate claim might be made upon the county authorities for any expense incurred by the borough in cases of the kind referred to, and he therefore moved that the Sanitary Committee be requested to confer with the county authorities as to reimbursement, and with the borough council as to the power of the committee to secure the community against contagion, with full power to act. The motion was adopted.

The Ordinance Committee reported an ordinance to provide for the removal of snow from the sidewalks and gutters of the borough. The ordinance, after some discussion, was, with a slight amendment, passed, and was ordered to be published. The following bills were then read and passed:

J. W. Dyer, lighting street lamps, $25.75. Sinceon Brooks, working on the streets, $12.50. Bristol Gas Light Co., for street lamps, $94.68. Bristol Gas Light Co., for Council Chamber, $5.00. Charles Saxton, salary, $25.00; Henry Bellis, $11.14. Penna. Globe Gas Light Co., $89.00. Steamboat Columbia, freight, $20.10.

Upon motion of Dr. Potts, it was decided that since the bill for gas for the past quarter was so small, the street lamp during the month of March should be kept burning all night.

Mr. Scheide offered a resolution providing for the creation of the office of Fire Warden. It was, at his request, referred to Ordinance Committee.

Mr. Hoquet moved that an appropriation of $50 be made for the Sanitary Committee, to be used to aid necessitous cases of contagious disease in the borough. Mr. Hoquet also referred to telegraph poles which were said to have been placed upon the borough property, and the Street Committee was instructed to inquire into the matter.

The constable having stated that William Percy, whose borough tax had been remitted, desired to pay his tax, upon motion the vote remitting the tax was reconsidered, and Mr. Percy's name placed upon the constable's list for collection.

Mr. Grundy, from the Ordinance Committee, reported that the committee was ready to proceed with the codification of the borough ordinances, and upon motion it was agreed that when Council adjourned it should be to meet on the Monday night following, to act upon the report of the Ordinance Committee. The Council then adjourned.

The canvass for the postmastership is growing very warm. The contest is thought by many to be virtually between Dr. Baker and William P. Wright. Mr. Garwood and his friends, however, think his chances good, and Isaac S. Tomlinson is not without hope of success. The temperance folks are said to be opposing Wright because his name appears on the license application of several saloon keepers. To believe the reports of the friends of each candidate would lead one to believe that there are a thousand or more Republican voters in the borough, for the reports state that no candidate has less than 400 votes pledged to him. We hope the reports are true, for if they are, we will not have any trouble hereafter in carrying the county for the Republicans. Without jostling, however, we trust that our citizens, entitled to vote on the postmastership, will consider the importance of the vote they will cast on Saturday. To conduct the post affairs of a town as large as Bristol requires ability of a kind not possessed by every man, and he who imagines that the main duties of the postmaster is to draw the salary is mistaken. The Post Office is an institution in which every person in the town is to a greater or less extent interested, and our citizens should see to it that the candidate best fitted for the position is chosen to fill the place.

—It is one of the gratifying results of the borough election on Tuesday that Charles S. Bailey was re-elected Justice of the Peace. In the faithful performance of his duties Mr. Bailey could not help but create more or less enmity. Every violator of the law who came before him was dealt with according to his merits felt it his particular duty to work and vote against Squire Bailey, and but for the earnest work of his friends they would have been successful. We congratulate the borough that it is still to have the benefits of Squire Bailey's efficient and impartial administration of justice. There is a lesson in what we have stated which our law-abiding, law-loving citizens who stay away from primary meetings and the election polls should remember. The class of people who come under the ban of the law and have felt the inconvenience of being compelled to comply with the laws on our statute books are always alert to strike down the instrument through which the law is enforced. But good, peaceable, quiet citizens, who are ever ready to uphold what is virtuous and for the public good are apt to imagine that everything will work for good whether they lend any assistance or not, and unless their attention is particularly called to a case, of which Squire Bailey's is an example, they do not seek information in the matter, but allow things to glide along as they will, and then after the wrong man is elected they are so sorry and full of regrets over the result.

The concert in the Baptist church, to which allusion was made last week, will occur this evening. An excellent program has been arranged for the occasion and the entertainment will doubtless prove one of the best of the season.

With all the nominating and electing that has occurred and will occur this week, nobody was nominated or elected Assistant Burgess of Bristol.

The borough election on Tuesday was the quickest and most uneventful that has been held for years, differing especially from last Spring, when the excitement ran pretty high. The Democrats seemed not to have gotten over their November defeat, and were so demoralized that they were unable to place a full ticket in the field. There was no Democratic candidate for Burgess nor High Constable, and the Second Ward may almost be considered as having had no opposition from the Democrats. The fight was centered entirely on the Justices of the Peace. There was a determined effort against Squire Bailey and William Lunderbough, particularly the former, and we regret to say that this opposition was not confined to Democrats. However, the Republicans were successful all over the borough, except in the Third Ward, and there they elected a councilman, which is a gain of one. John W. Bailey was re-elected School Director from the First Ward, and Edward C. Brudon, who refused to run again, will give place to John Stradling. When the new Board is reorganized there will therefore be but one Democrat in the Board. The result in the borough is as follows:

The regular meeting of the Bucks and Montgomery County Baptist Ministers' Union was held at the Baptist Church, Bristol, on Tuesday. Rev. Mr. Hudson, of Hatboro, presided, and Rev. Mr. Petter, of New Britain, was secretary. Interesting papers were read by Rev. Mr. Marsh and Rev. Mr. Hutchinson, of Southamptonville. Mr. Marsh's paper was upon the relation of morals to religion, and Mr. Hutchinson's upon law, Biblical and other kinds. In the evening a sermon was preached by Rev. John Miller, of Doylestown. The attendance was very good and the proceedings very interesting. The next meeting will be held at Hatboro.

The proposition made at the meeting of Council on Monday evening, for the creation of the office of Fire Warden, is one that, if adopted, will prove of important benefit to the borough.

On the 28th of February an entertainment will be given at Washington Hall for the benefit of the Bristol Library. Miss Nella F. Brown, the well known elocutionist, who is spoken of in high terms by Helen Potter and other persons of high prominence, and has immense audiences wherever she appears, will give an exhibition of her inimitable elocutionary and dramatic powers. There is but one opinion expressed in regard to Miss Brown, wherever she has been heard, and that is, that she has no superior as an elocutionist in this country.

NEWS ITEMS.
—Addison Rowland, a miser, died in a miserable hovel in Meadville on the 5th. Among his effects were $450 in gold, $1092 in silver, and $2040 in greenbacks, besides a bushel of pennies, six gold and twenty-four silver watches, and a large amount of jewelry.
—A farmer's dog at West Lincoln, Ill., set his teeth into a fellow who was taking a girl out through a window for the purpose of an elopement, and held on till the father came. That dog deserves an extra bone, and the girl upon due reflection, will give it to him.
—Mr. Whitney, a Massachusetts man who has resided in South Africa, proposes to introduce the raising of ostriches in San Bernardino county, California, starting with one hundred pairs. He says that twelve years ago only forty ostriches were domesticated in South Africa, where now there are 150,000.
—The Baltimore public schools have hitherto been governed by ward politicians, and the city council is now considering an ordinance which will, in a measure do away with this system. The Baltimore American says that "while there are some gentlemen of intelligence and moral dignity on the board, they are sure to be outvoted whenever 'patronage' is involved and ward interests are to be provided for. It is not too much to say that the present School Board is conducted upon ideas that would be ridiculous if they were not so shameful. The city can no longer afford to carry this load of ignorance, incompetence and trickery on its educational system."
—The Panama Star and Herald of February 3d contains an account of the arrival of the first detachment of M. de Desseps' canal engineers, and adds "It is understood that the work of the various sections and commissions is to be begun at once and pushed on with energy. These will relate principally to the exact location of the line for the proposed canal, clearing away the timber, brush, etc., thus opening up the country through which the excavation will be made, arranging matters of titles for right of way, buildings, etc., and the general land grants of the company, and other matters of a preliminary character which must necessarily precede the commencement of the actual work in rearing the continents' asunder." In anticipation of the prosperity which is expected to take possession of the Isthmus in the wake of the French engineers, rents have advanced enormously, in some cases from 50 to 100 per cent. Notwithstanding the rose colored atmosphere by which the Star and Herald is surrounded, that journal sensibly advises against a rush of laborers to the Isthmus, since there is not likely to be any great demand at present for mere bone and muscle.
